About

As a front-end developer with UX/UI focus, I'm passionate about web development, as well as enjoying taking on coding challenges, solving problems, and learning new things during each project.

With cross-industries experiences, I see each project from an idea to delivering to clients as a whole picture. Previously graduated and worked as Graphic Designer, which enabled me to have a good eye in the Visual, User Interface design. The study of User Experience design-related courses and years of experiences in hospitality, taught me how to emphasize our users' needs to ensure better user experiences.

I'm a member of Interaction Design Foundation Linkoping.
